VIOLENT TEMPEST OF WIND AND RAIN. CONTINUED SEVERITY OF THE STORM-SCENES IN THE CITY-CASUALTIES IN AND AROUND NEW-

YORK -THE GALE ALONG THE COAST. The storm of wind and rain which began in this vicinity on Saturday, with slight admonitory showers, and raged furiously on Sanday, continued yesterday with increased violence. The storm center-the area of low baremeter-was in Dakota on Friday, in the Cuper Mississippi Valley on Saturday, in Tennessee on Sunday, and on the Chesapeake Bay yesterday. This city, where so many complaints of drouth have been recently made, has been washed clean from end to end, and a very valuable addition to the water supply is acknowledged by the Commissioners.

New-York presented a dreary appearance yesterday. The rain was not so drenching as in itself to have caused great discomfort to pedestrians, but the wind, fit.ul and gusty, seeming to come from all directions at once, drove the moisture through the thickest clothing, rendered umbrellas un-manageable, and made walking a somewhat hazardous experiment. It played tricks without number upon the edestrians on the streets, turning umbrelias wrong side out, sending hats flying in different directions and causing their owners infinite vexation and the more fortunate much amusement. One gentleman's umbrella was carried from his hand and went sailing up into the air nearly to the top of the neighboring buildings. On Broadway not more than three or four men to each driven by the wind, scurried across the streets in reat sheets of water. The gutters were min ature rivers, and the sewers, unable to carry away the water as ers, and the sewers, unable to carry away the water as rapidly as it accumulated, were surrounded by small lakes. The sidewalks, worn smooth by constant travel and washed clean by the long rain, were converted into mirrors by the moisture upon them and reflected the surrounding objects. A fine effect of this was noticeable in front of the picture stores. Each pedestrian's reflection accompanied him, and inequalities in the pavement made tic and not altogether complimentary alterations louble below him. The stores were deserted, and the clerks were gathered in groups in the windows, gazing moodily upon the deserted streets and steadilyfalling rain. In many of them the gas-jets were lit, and they gleamed foggly through the rain and mist which obscured the window-panes. The hacks on the different stands were an air of stern endurance, the poor horses anding with drooping heads, and their streaming flanks steaming in the chill air, while their drivers were erled up inside, drowsing away the weary hours. The omnibuses had almost a monopoly of the street and drove a thriving trade. Their drivers, well bundled up, d the passers-by and filled their vehicles to overflowing. Inside, the steam and rain rendered the windows semi-opaque and obscured the outer world from In the side streets the wind held high carnival among the dry limbs of the trees, which were scattered in every direction, and the signs swung to and fro, creaking Altogether the aspect of the out-door world was far from inviting yesterday, and a cheer-ful fire took on new attractions. And yet e whom necessity compelled to be abroad and on the whole as much amused at the misfortunes of their neighbors as they were vexed at their own, and the average countenance was comparatively cheerful. The man who said he "knew how to carry an umbrella" alked from the lower side of Madison-square into Broadway yesterday afternoon, and would have stopped under the first doorway to turn his umbrella right side out and examine the break in the handle if his hat had not invited a "bop, skip, and jump" race across the street. The corner of Madison-square and Broadway, where the wind, after a full sweep, was suddenly checked, seemed to be the pivot on which the storm turned. Signs were vn, and any man, woman, or child who ventured into the literal maelstrom with a whole umbrella as certainly came out looking like a full blown tulip, of which the umbrella was the stem and blossom. A pathetic instance was the case of a quaint-looking colored washerwoman. She carried a basket of starched linen in one hand and old blue umbrella in other. The umbrella was quickly turned inside out, and the cloth was torn from the handle. She persisted in treating the matter as a huge joke, and grinned so broadly as to endanger

The wind in New-York was east from noon on Sunday until about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when it shifted the north-east, from which quarter it blew during the rest of the day. At 2:45 p. m. its velocity was 50 miles an hour, and the average velocity during the day was 31 miles. Up to 9 o'clock in the evening 1.06 inches of rain had fallen in New-York from the beginning of the storm-.32 inch on Sunday and .74 inch yesterday. According to the evening dispatches received at the Signal Office in the Equitable building, more rain had fallen in Philadelphia than anywhere else. It amounted in all to 4.56 delphia than anywhere else. It amounted in all to take inches, of which amount 2.02 inches fell yesterday. Weather reports from different parts of the country re-yeal the extent and character of the storm. At Portland, Me., the wind blew from the north-east with a velocity of 25 miles an hour. At Boston the rain-fall during the day was 1.42 inches, and the wind blew a gale from the north-east, reaching at one time 42 miles an hour. It was feared by many persons that the severity and direction of the wind on the Atlantic coast would cause nushtowreeks and apprehensions were expre that ocean steamships in the vicinity of the shore might suffer damage. Many suggestions as to the experience of the Franklin were made, and several jokes were eracked at the expense of that notoriously bad sailor William M. Tweed. Fortunately, however, the reported losses and casual ties are comparatively few. The tide was unusually high, and low cellars on the water-front were filled with water in many instances. One or two trees and telegraph poles were blown down, but as far as could be ascer tained not more than three or four persons were injured. In the neighboring cities of Long Island and New-Jersey the reported facts are about the same. The Jersey meadows were flooded in an uncommon degree, one passenger on the Central Railroad of New-Jersey re-marking that he had never seen them covered with water to the same extent. In Hoboken a chimney fell, causing some damage, but injuring nobody.

In this city the damage was of the same general character. About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon one of the large chimneys of the Grand Hotel came rattling down upon the roof, frightening the boarders and almost causing a panic among the guests, who imagined that the roof had been blown off. Some of the bricks struck the telegraph wires, separating them, and interrupting for a time the police lines. The force of the wind about the same time overthrew a telegraph pole at Pearl and Centre-sts., carrying away in its fall a web of wires, composed of the Western Union Telegraph lines, the police and the fire telegraph lines. Several persons were near the pole when it broke, and, had it not been retarded in its fall by the wires, thus allowing time to escape, they must have been seriously in-jured. One of the fire alarm telegraph poles at Albany and Greenwich-sis. was blown down by the gole last

The house and furniture at No. 750 Sixth-ave. were damaged $500 last night by the falling of a large chimney from No. 754 Sixth-ave. The gale tore the braces from the bricks and mortar, and the chimney toppled over with a great crash. Fortunately nobody was hurt, though the inmates of the house were much fright-

As one of the line men was about to descend a pole belonging to the Western Union Telegraph Company, at Manhattan st. and the Boulevard, last night, he was caught by the wind and hurled to the ground. He was taken to the Ninety-ninth Street Reception Hospital in an unconscious condition. There it was found that his left arm was fractured, and that he was otherwise seriously injured. His name is James Sullivan.

The canal boat Alvin Lighthall, loaded with apples, was fsunk near Pier No. 10 North River last night by the violence of the gale.

A great many awnings, signs, and shutters were mo or less injured throughout the city, and the aggregate loss is probably considerable, while individual losses are

In the bay and on the rivers the force of the gale was sufficient to raise a heavy sea, and the ferry boats, especially on the Staten Island line, had very rough passages. About 8 o'clock in the morning a sail-boat con-taining three men, while opposite Hunter's Point ferry, East River, was seen to capsize, and shortly after the men were seen struggling in the water. The tugboat Henry Rollin went to the rescue and succeeded in savof the men. The other two could not be found, and it is supposed they were drowned.

It was not learned that there had been any serious in terruption of telegraphic communication, or that the mails had been delayed. It was stated by several persons having offices in the Equitable Insurance Building that early in the afternoon they felt the building tremble as if by an earthquake shock. Sergeant Peurod's as sistant felt the motion distinctly. It was not learned that any shock was felt in other parts of the city. At 6 o'clock the rain had nearly ceased, and at 9 o'clock it had ceased entirely, although the clouds were still thick to be deserted by all except those who were compelled, at the risk of an overturned umbrella, to venture out, at the risk of an overturned umbrella, to venture out, while the street cars were crowded to an unusual degree. Trees, signs, and some buildings were blown down, and loose shutters, awnings, and the few political banners yet remaining were much damaged. The police telegraph was injured to some extent, and the linemen were kept basy in maintaining the connection between the Central Office and the various stations. At 4:50 p. m. a series of large wooden sheds, 200 feet wide and 900 feet in depth, on the New-York Bay, at the foot of Ferrisst, South Brooklyn, was unroofed and blown down. The sheds, which were formerly used for the storage of naval supplies, but which have been vacant recently, were owned by George E. Archer of No. 153 State-st. The damage is estimated at $4,000. As Henry Meyer of No. 204 Forsyth-st., New-York, was walking along Grandave, between Park and Myrticayees, yesterday morning, the fence of a vacant lot at No. 123 was blown down and fell upon him. His right leg was broken. At 5 p. m. the roof of the dancing platform in Scian plaine's Park at the foot of Thirty-ninth-st., South Brooklyn, was blown off, causing demage to the amount of $300. Four large trees on High-st, between Bridge and Gold-sis, were blown down, damage to the amount of $300. Four large trees on High-st, between Bridge and Gold-sis, were blown down, damagen the adjoining fences, &c., to the amount of $70. Two houses in Sixth-st., between Fourth and Fifth-aves, were unroofed. The loss is about $450. Trees were also blown down and uprooted in different portions of the city, and various streets were rendered impassable for several hours on this account.

In the lower wards of Newark a large number of cellars have been filled and the meadows are flooded more deeply than for several years. The wind made have among trees, fences, and chimneys. A bridge on the Long Ernach Raifroad at Sea Girt, is reported to have been washed away by the swelling of the river. The high tide and rain washed away a portion of the track between South A while the street cars were crowded to an unusual degree

THE STORM ALONG THE COAST. The heavy wind and rain-storm, which continued at its hight throughout Sunday and yesterday, had its beginning on Friday last, which followed a pleasant Thursday ining on Friday last, which followed a pieasant Traursaay. The wind then veered to the northward and enstward, and the sky became overcast, when it was evident to all storm prophets that the usual Autumn storm was brewing, and in the sailors' pariance "we were going to have a howher." The wind came out fresh from the south-east early on Saturday morning, and steadily increased in force throughout the day, until about 8 o'clock in the evening it blew what might be termed a stiff gale. The sea grew into large mountainous waves, and the weather was so threatening that the pilot-boats and other sailing craft within 100 miles of shore sought shelter by running inside of Sandy Hook and anchoring in the "Horseshoe." When daylight broke the gale had increased and the weather was thick, becoming a dense fog before afternoon. The sea was running so high that few vessels crossed the bar, and the pilot-boats hardly dared to venture out. During Sanday there were only two steamships which crossed the bar coming in. A half dozen sailing craft ventured in and anchored in the "Horseshoe." Many others kept off seaward, not wishing to run any risks on the lee-shore. The two steamers which arrived on Sunday were the Baltie of the White Starline, from Queenstown and Liverpool, and the Reading Railroad Company's steamer Harrisburg from Philadelphia, laden with coal. The Baltie arrived off the Hook at 9 o'clock on Saturday might, but did not pass Quarantine until 8 am. on Sunday. She reports encountering a strong easterly gale as she neared the coast. The Harrisburg experienced heavy weather on the Jersey coast, but from her peculiar construction she would stand the gale with her 1,400 tons cargo of coal better than sone of the steamers which cross the occan.

Yesterday there were only five vessels which came inside of Sandy Hook. The coasting steamers Huntsville and Wyanoke, and the Williams & Gnion line steamer Idaho, from Liverpool, came in early in the day. The Canina, from Bernuda, passed Quarantine hought is was too rough, and yind then veered to the northward and eastward, ontward on Subon, Gravesend Bay, turned about and anemore. Gravesend Bay, turned about and anemore. Ridge. She repeated the experiment this morning with the same result, and was lying singly at anchor last night at sundown, waiting for the storm to cease. Another steamer made a similar attempt on sunday and inally anchored off Bay Ridge, where she still lies.

At sundown the sky showed signs of clearing in the south-east, but became overeast immediately atterward. The theory among those along the cast was that the gale would break at midnight, and that there would be many disasters reported. It is said that the gale is the severest that has happened in the last two years. The damage along the sea-wall at Quarantine and at other points is considerable.

THE STORM AREA.

THE CONTROLLERSHIP.

NO NOMINATION YET.

INTENSE INTEREST FELT BY LOCAL POLITICIANS-CONFLICTING RUMORS-JOHN KELLY LIKELY TO BE MR. GREEN'S SUCCESSOR-ACTION OF THE

ALDERMEN. The City Hall presented an unwonted aspect vesterday, and it was evident at an early hour that some subject of much more than usual interest was agitating the minds of local politicians. The Aldermen's room was crowded long before noon by members of the Board and their political friends, who were divided into groups engaged in earnest conversation. In the corridors also were knots of two and three with heads close together as if communicating and listening to matters of momentous interest. The door of the Mayor's office was besieged by visitors, and to one gaining admittance to his private room at any time before 2 p. m. the scene was presented of the portly Mayor seated before the glowing grate fire and facing three or four city patriots, their eads all bowed toward the center of the group, and their voices so modulated as to reach only those for whom their words were designed. The cause of the excitement was that the time had come when the Mayor might, if he saw fit, send to the Board of Aldermen nominations for the offices of Controller and Corporation Counsel. There was little discussion in regard to the Corporation Counsel, as it was generally understood that Mr. Whitney would be continued in the office without opposition. Concerning the Control of the Co lership conflicting rumors were in circulation It was asserted by some that Mr. Green would be renominated, in conformity with a bargain with Mr. Tilden, who, in return, in case of his election to the Presidency, would give Mr. Wickham a position in the New-York Custom-house. This was scouted by others, who said that such a nomination would never be confirmed by the Aldermen. The prevailing opinion was that John Kelly would be the choice of the Mayor, and it was conceded that if this nomination should be made in good faith it would be immediately confirmed. A report was started, however, that the Mayor had decided to send in Mr. Kelly's name, as the only man not likely to meet with serious opposition, but with an understanding with Mr. Kelly that he should resign on Jan. 1, 1877, giving Mayor Elythe power to appoint his successor, who would hold office for four years and eleven months with-

rumor did not obtain much credence. As 2 o'clock, the hour for the meeting of the board, drew near, it was generally understood that no names would be sent in yesterday, the Mayor having ten days further in which to make his nominations. The almost universal impression was, however, that Mr. Kelly's omination had been decided upon, and that he would hold the Controllership during the entire term. It was confidently asserted that positive assurances of this had been given $5 Mr. Wickham, and that the nomination had been postponed till Thursday solely on account of

Mr. Kelly's marriage, which will be celebrated to-day. On the assembling of the Board of Aldermen, all the visitors' seats and the standing room were filled with spectators, who evidently had expected an exciting session. The only allusions to the subject of general interest were made by Aldermen Purroy and Morris. Alderman Cole had made a motion the effect of which would have been to transfer the ex-penditure of a large sum of money from the Controller to the Police Commissioners. Alderman Parroy called his attention to this, and added: "I hardly think the Alderman intended this, as we hope to have in a few days a Controller in whom we will all have confidence." This a Controller is what a smile of general approval. Near the close of the session Alderman Morris said: "Mr. Fresident, a great many gentlemen arc; on the anxious seathere, and I would ask if any communication has been received from the Mayor." Mr. Lewis replied that no communication had been received.

The appropriations for the Park Department and the courts were not acted upon, but it was reported that increased amounts had been asked for, which it was believed would be added at the next meeting of the beard. The action of the Aldermen is not final, being subject to review by the Board of Apportionment.

TWEED'S CELL YET VACANT.

THE FRANKLIN STILL AT SEA. NO NEWS FROM INCOMING VESSELS-DOUBTFUL RE-PORT FROM ST. THOMAS-THE QUARTERS PRE-

PARED FOR TWEED AT LUDLOW STREET JAIL. Another day and night have passed and the arrival of the steam frigate Franklin and William M. Tweed is still delayed. The ship was not expected yesterday, as the north-east gale of Saturday and Sunday had increased in force, and there was every reason why a prudent commander should keep his vessel a safe distance from the lee shore. The European steamship Idaho and the Huntsville from Port Royal arrived yes terday, and the officers reported that they had seen nothing of the Franklin. The weather, however, had been so foggy that they could see only a short distance. It is thought that the Frank-lin has been steaming up against the gale, with only sufficient steam to enable her to maintain her position, and that she is not far from the shore. If this is correct, she will probably reach Sandy Hook very soon after the storm subsides, and will cross the bar at the next high tide. A very few days-perhaps a few hourswill put an end to Mr. Tweed's lone voyage, of which be is probably heartily weary by this time. Indeed, with the exception of the few days spent in Cuba, he seems to have been on the water all the time since his escape Even his quarters in Ludlow-st. will probably be accepted as a change for the better.

Passengers by the Canima, which arrived yesterday from Bermuda, state that they left St. Thomas on Nov. 10, and that the Franklin was still there, the ship would allow no communication with the shore Franklin sailed from St. Thomas on Nov. 8, and it contradicts itself, for the first telegraphic report was confirmed by THE TRIBUSE'S correspondence in regard to Tweed, from St. Thomas, that she arrived on Nov. 5. If she was still there on Nov. 10, she would have been in port five days, which is not likely. It is probable that the first received dates were correct, an probable that the first received dates were correct, and that there is some error in this last report. News of the arrival of the Franklin at 8t. Thomas reached Bermuda on Monday, Nov. 13, and the officers of the Canima first heard the news there. They saw nothing of the vessel on their way to this port. The officers of both the Huntsville and Canima reported a very stormy passage, and thought it was not at all semarkable that they had not signifed the Franklin, as the weather had been so foggy as to prevent their seeing my considerable distance at sea. Capt. Winters of the Huntsville said it was the most stormy voyage he had ever made.

Whether Tweed arrives toolar, to-morrow, or next week, he will find accommodations prepared for him at Ladlow Street Jail, though he will miss the cheerful apartment looking out upon the street where the mis-cheerful by its outlook upon the court-yard. But though in no sense attractive, it is not positively uncomfortable. The contrast is marked between this room and that has occupied in the hall by the returning captive. Has one room, at the front of the building, is next to that at present occupied by Warden Watson as a sleeping apartment. It is nearly if not quite twice as large as the new one, is better furnished and more cheerful. There are sofas, a writing table, a clock, and several pictures, and the bustle of the street must have greatly relieved the monotony of the prisoner's life. This room is now used as a sitting-room by Mr. Watson, who said that he did not intend to give it up to Tweed or anybody cise. "Besides," added he, "that window opening on the street spoils at for Tweed; I would not trust him here." The Warden showed another room on the southern side of the jall, which he said was regarded as pleasant and comfortable, but it had a window opening on Essex Market-place, and was therefore untitled for Tweed's necommodation." Indeed," said the Warden, "I would not dare to trust him many other room than that which I have arranged for him. That has a window looking upon the cons., and is accessible only from the apartment where I sleep, while in the adjoining corridor is a watchman." Mr. Watson said that so long as he was in charge Tweet would be treated precisely like other prisoners, and tast if the former chef of the King expected unsua favors he would be disappointed. He could not have anything which the Warden did not choose to furnish him.

THE COUNT IN LOUISIANA. THE RULES ADDITED BY THE RETURNING BOARD GOVERNING THE COUNT. NEW-ORLEANS, Nov. 20, 1876.

The following are the rules adopted by the Board with a view to regularity and expedition in the discharge of its duties:

First: The Returning Officers will meet at 12 o'clock

, each day, Sundays excepted, at the place designated for holding their sessions, unless a different hour or place be designated at adjournment. Second: Upon meeting, the presiding officer of the eard shall order the roll of members called, and if a quorum be present, he shall direct the secretary to read the minutes of the preceding meeting or meetings, un less the reading thereof be dispensed with. Third: The Secretary shall daily keep an accurate ac-rount of the proceedings of the returning officers.

Fourth: The Board shall first take up, canvass, and ompile returns from parishes where no objection is made to the canvass or compilation of the votes cast at any polling place in such parish or parishes on account of fraud or intimidation or other illegal practice, examning these only to ascertain whether the legal formali ties have been complied with in holding the election and making the returns to the returning officers. Fifth: That after disposing of the parishes as pro vided in the preceding rule, then the returning officers take up parishes in which objection is made to the vote of any or all polls in such parishes, that they first canvass and compact to which no objection is made, and then they shall take up the contested polls in such parish; provided that it becomes necessary to delay the investigation of any such polls on account of the ab-scace of witnesses or other evidence, the same may be continued until a day to be fixed by the returning officers; that the returning officers shall decide at the time they are ready to proceed what parishes they will take up. Sixth: That all motions made by candidates or their attorneys, or by other persons authorized to appear before the returning officers, shall be in writing and signed; all arguments presented to the returning efficers shall be in writing, no oral arguments to be allowed.

Secrath: The returning officers, if they think it advisa-ble, may go into secret session to consider any motion or argument or proposition which may be presented to them; any member shall have the right to call for a secret session for the above purposes.

Eighth: When any candidate or his attorney, or other person authorized to do so, shall produce a witness be fore the returning officers, he shall present the interrogatories to be propounded to such witness, which he shall have previously submitted to his opponent to be crossed, at least 24 hours, unless such time be waived or the cross-interrogatories put before the expiration of that time ; in the examination of witnesses the returning officers may interrogate witnesses beyond said interrogatories when they think it necessary, but caudidates and their attorneys shall not examine witnesses before the returning officers except as above provided.

Ninth: No ex parte affidavits or statements shall be reeived, except as a basis to show that such fraud, intin idation, or such illegal practice at some poll requires in terrogatories, but returns and affidavits authorized by law, made by officers of election, or in verification of a statement, as required by law, shall be received in evidence prima facie. Tenth: That the evidence for each contested poll in any parish, when concluded, shall be laid aside until all the evidence is in from all the contested polls in the several parishes where there contestants, and after the evidence will is all in, the returning officers will decide the several contests in secret session. Contestants or their attorneys will be allowed to submit briefs, or written arguments up to the time fixed for the returning officers to go into ecret session, after which no additional arguments will be received unless by special consent.

The board began the canvass of the vote, taking up the undisputed parishes in alphabetical order. Three parishes, namely Ascension, Assumption, and Avoyelles, were disposed of, giving about the same vote as shown in the tables made heretofore from duplicate poll lists.

The Hon. G. W. Julian, who at first declined to serve on the committee of which Gov. Palmer is chairman, because he then expected to return home, has consented to be added to that committee and will remain here until the pending investigation is concluded.

The Vienna correspondent of The Times says:

Russia has communicated to the Powers the demands for reforms which Gen. Ignatieff has been instructed to present at the conference. They correspond pretty closely to those last published in the Political Correspondence. It is reassuring that Russia, when making this communication, did not mention the necessity of foreign occupation of the insurgent provinces of Turkey. It is nevertheless certain that the conviction prevails in Russia that occupation is the only possible way to effect the disarmament of the Mohammedan population. It seems that Gen. Schouvaloff has expressed this conviction in London and suggested that France might, as in the case of Syria, be commissioned to occupy the provinces if necessary. The French Government, however, eclined The representatives of the Porte abroad have been in structed to make known its resolution that the Salian neither could nor would in any circumstances consent at the occupation of Turkish territory even by the most friendly Power.

The Times disputch from Berlin pronounces unfound the rumor of the impending mobilization of two German RUSSIAN WAR PREPARATIONS. The Times Vicuna dispatch explains that there are two centers of military preparation in Southern Russia. Kisheneff is the headquarters of the operating army, while at Odessa 120,000 men are being collected under Gen. Totleben, who is charged with the defense of the Black Sea coast. It is doubtful whether this force is in cluded in the six corps whose mobilization has already been ordered. The impression on the spot seems take been ordered. The impression on the spot seems to be that mobilization is really going on on a larger scale than has been officially announced, and that in reality more than six army corps are actually being mobilized, while necessary preparations are being mode for mobilization at a moment's notice on a still larger scale. This seems but natural. A conscription of horses is in rapid progress. The Government of Bessarabia has already collected 10,000 horses. Large pontoon trains, suitable for crossing the Danube, are arriving in Bessarabia, and being sent on to the Pruth. Simultaneously with these preparations efforts are kept up to excite the national enthusiasm, and Russian journals are daily permitted by the press censors to print long wartike articles.
